DETAILED ACTION

Applicant canceled claims 1-56 and added new claims 57-74.

Applicant should update the Continuing Data in first line of the specification to include the divisional 10/025,080 filed 12/19/01, now US Patent No. 6,706,931.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 57-74 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tsujii, Kaoru; Okahashi, Kenji; Takeuchi, Takashi., "Physicochemical properties of anionic surfactants with poly(oxyalkylene) group in water," Tochigi Res. Lab., Kao Soap Co., Tochigi, Japan (1981), 30(9), pp. 566-72.

Tsujii et al teach physiochemical properties of detergent or surfactants of sodium salts of sulfate esters of alkoxyated C12-C18 fatty acid alcohols containing 1-8 oxyalkylene groups/mol. Furthermore, the surfactants containing polyoxyethylene groups have higher critical micelle concentrations compared with surfactants containing polyoxypropylene and polyoxybutylene groups (see abstract). The sulfate ester compound has the formula:

The anionic surfactant of Tsujii et al differ only by additional CH₂ groups, however, it would have been obvious to include additional homologs because absent a showing to the contrary, one of ordinary skill in the art would expect similar properties because of close structural similarity. For it is held that "A prima facie case of obviousness may be made when chemical compounds have very close structural similarities and similar utilities. "An obviousness rejection based on similarity in chemical structure and function entails the motivation of one skilled in the art to make a claimed compound, in the expectation that compounds similar in structure will have similar properties." In re Payne, 606 F.2d 303, 313, 203 USPQ 245, 254 (CCPA 1979). See In re Papesch, 315 F.2d 381, 137 USPQ 43 (CCPA 1963) (discussed in more detail below) and In re Dillon, 919 F.2d 688, 16 USPQ2d 1897 (Fed. Cir. 1991) (MPEP § 2144) for an extensive review of the case law pertaining to obviousness based on close structural similarity of chemical compounds. See also MPEP § 2144.08, paragraph II.A.4.(c). Compounds, which are position isomers (compounds having the same radicals in physically different positions on the same nucleus) or homologs (compounds differing regularly by the successive addition of the same chemical group, e.g., by -CH₂- groups) are generally of sufficiently close structural similarity that there is a presumed expectation that such compounds possess similar properties. In re Wilder, 563 F.2d 457, 195 USPQ 426 (CCPA 1977). See also In re May, 574 F.2d 1082, 197 USPQ 601 (CCPA 1978) (stereoisomers prima facie obvious).
